Animal Intelligence.
Elephants are among the most severely drilled of animals. Their intelligence does not have free play in consequence. But all English trainers agree that there is a great difference in capacity between them and that some will learn and remember a lesson far more quickly than others.

Cats have very "level" brains and are too self centered and self contained as a rule to show the distinctions which exist between them. Their strongest instinct is toward a kind of domestic comfort not exactly shared with human beings, but enjoyed in their company, to which the cat perfectly adapts itself. Yet there are misanthropic cats which make no secret of their dislike and contempt for mankind in general, only come into the house under protest and would prefer to sleep in a coal cellar to taking their nap in good society. These are the exceptions in the cat world, but every one has met with them.

Birds are usually regarded as possessing brains in "classes," not as individuals, the origin of the belief being probably the fact that birds of one species usually build exactly the same kind of nest. The generalization is not correct. The same species may have brains of all capacities.—London Spectator.

Missing His Metaphors.
To Lord Rosebery's famous "spade and wind" metaphor may be added two or three lapses, not all of which are mixed metaphors, perpetuated by Lord Londonderry.

In 1890 Lord Londonderry threw the house of lords into roars of laughter during the debate on the second reading of the Irish land bill by gravely declaring that "this is the reason why you have failed to settle the Irish land question in the future as you have done in the past."

In the course of the same speech he concluded a period with, "This is the keynote of the bill, are you going to kill it?"

Better still was a sentence which he uttered in 1897 when speaking once more on the Irish land question. "That your lordship will see," referring to a quotation he had just made, "underscore up to the hilt what I have said."—Tattler.

Courtesan In China.
A curious custom prevails at Hunan, in China. On the first month of each year all the young ladies and gentlemen take a walk to the Yenren mountain. Each carries a little box, which she deposits at the foot of the hill. Any young gentleman desirous of entering the bonds of matrimony may select one of the boxes and take it away with him, whereupon the fair owner of the box makes herself known, and an acquaintance is thus formed. If assorted matches are not likely to occur, as this custom is observed only among the well to do classes of society.

Debt is, like any other trap, easy enough to get into, but hard enough to get out of.—H. W. Shaw.

PRIMARIES--THE VOTE BY PRECINCTS.

In the following figures by precincts in the Republican Primary election, the order in which the offices and names of candidates appear in the First Ward, Precinct A, just below, is followed throughout.
